This week, Inman, the real estate industry's foremost source of news and information, announced its 2025 Future Leaders in Real Estate award winners. This year's class of next-generation emerging talents demonstrates leadership and a commitment to driving innovation.

Emily Paquette, CEO of Inman, commented, "Inman is celebrating the 2025 class of rising stars who have distinguished themselves early in their careers. The 2025 Future Leaders in Real Estate truly embody the potential to be the next generation of industry titans."

A multi-month public nomination process garnered submissions across five categories: agent, teams and brokers; marketing and sales; mortgage and finance; technology and data; and advocates for change. The 54 Future Leaders include honorees in each category.
